

INVO Bioscience Confirms Corporate Name Change and New Trading Symbol in Connection with Its Recent Merger with NAYA Biosciences

New Trading Symbol “NAYA” Effective Tuesday October 22, 2024

SARASOTA, Fla. and MIAMI, Oct. 21, 2024 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) — INVO Biosciences (Nasdaq: INVO), a company focused on expanding its portfolio of clinical and commercial-stage assets in fertility, oncology, and autoimmune diseases through the merger of INVO Biosciences and NAYA Biosciences, today confirmed it has changed its corporate name to NAYA Biosciences Inc. and will begin trading under the new symbol “NAYA” at the market open on Tuesday, October 22, 2024.

The CUSIP number for the Company’s common stock will remain unchanged.

The name and symbol change follows the Company’s recent announcement on October 14th regarding the completion of its merger with NAYA Biosciences. The newly combined company will continue to operate the revenue-generating fertility business while expanding its focus on the development of first-in-class clinical-stage assets in oncology and autoimmune diseases.

“We believe the name change and new trading symbol better reflects our expanded corporate strategy,” commented Steve Shum, CEO of the combined company. “Combining scalable, profitable revenues from our fertility business with the upside of innovative therapeutics optimizes risk-return for investors. In addition, the hub-and-spoke model allows for shared resources and talent to accelerate the development of our lean, agile subsidiaries.”
