

Syra Health Wins Awards for Providing Board Certified Behavioral Analysts in Two States

Arizona and New York mark the 21st and 22nd states where Syra has active agreements

CARMEL, Ind., June 6, 2024 — Syra Health Corp. (NASDAQ: SYRA) (“Syra Health” or the “Company”), a healthcare technology company powering better health by providing meaningful solutions, announced today that it has received awards for staffing Board Certified Behavioral Analysts from the Putnam/Northern Westchester Board of Cooperative Education Services (PNWBOCES) in New York and the Little Rock School District in Arkansas. Both awards are one year in length with the PNWBOCES agreement having an option of up to four one-year renewals.

Board Certified Behavioral Analysts are healthcare providers who study behavior patterns and develop individualized treatment plans that address behavioral health issues. These wins underscore Syra Health’s commitment to helping alleviate the mental and behavioral health burden carried by students.

“We are proud to be winning contracts at such a rapid pace. Every state we work in and department we collaborate with, empowers us to make tangible differences in the lives of people dealing with mental health struggles and bolsters our commitment to the space,” said Dr. Deepika Vuppalachchi, CEO, Syra Health. “Expanding our business across twenty-two states is indicative of our relentless pursuit of growth, innovation, and excellence.”

The PNWBOCES is a regional education agency that supports local school districts by offering quality, cost-effective services and programs.
